Re: Jones & Woolman Ltd

We are industrial roofing contractors involved in the installation of various types of metal roofing systems in the leisure, retail and distribution sectors.

We have successfully employed Jones & Woolman on numerous projects since the early 1990's.

Their unique system, coupled with an efficient, speedy and flexible service allows virtually any type of apertures to be installed and weathered without the need for site measurement or purpose made fabricated soaker units.

In addition, complex junction details can be readily weathered in-situ where for practical reasons, metal flashings may not be appropriate.

We would have no hesitation in recommending Jones & Woolman to undertake work of this nature.

Yours faithfully

D. A. Swales
Contracts Director
